EDUCATION AND DEMOCRACY,

LATTER DEPENDS UPON FORMER Government Depends Upon Public Education of All Children.

France M. Buckley, A. M., supering sendent of the schools of Ansonia was given a hearty welcome as he was presented by President Haviland to speaupon Education and Democracy. H sented by President Haviland to speak upon Education and Democracy. He said, "The suffrage is the power of life and death over a state." When the venerable publicist uttered these words he enunciated a truism which is at the basis of all representative government. The foundation stone of a democracy is its electorate, and for weal or woe the very essence of a democracy is overnment lies in the absolute power of the people. Our fathers derived their government lies in the absolute power of the people. Our fathers derived their government from self-evident truths which were written as with a sunbeam on the whole volume of human nature by the hands of the pursuit of happiness are man's unalienable rights and these are best secured by a government that derives its powers from the consent of the governed. The founders of this government wisely foresaw that if suffrage was basis to the life of a democracy, suffrage itself must guard against enervation by depositing itself upon the unshakable foundation of popular education. Since the perpetuation of every government resis upon the education of its leaders, the perpetuation of this democracy, where the people themselves are leaders, resis upon the education of its leaders, the perpetuation of this democracy, where the people themselves are leaders, resis upon a general system of education that shall aim to educate at public expense all the children of all the people. In a representative form of government it becomes increasingly evident that freedom and ignorance are incompatible, and that popular government without popular education cannot permanently endure.

Education a Necessity.

Education a Necessity.

Citizenship in this republic means participation in a government of liberty under law or government founded upon the basid principles of justice wherein the attempt is made to render to everyone his due. It follows that our government in the last analysis is founded in the individual will and shall stand or fall as the will dictates By reason of this very fact the safe and proper direction of the public will become imperative and the education of all the citizens become an absolute incomsity. The hope and destiny of democracy are inextricably bound us with the proper direction of the mindian consciences of the masses. Unit versal education is not essential for the monarchial forms of government which rests upon the intelligence of the few; but in a democracy with the sovereign power in the hands of the people, since they must have fur knowledge of their rights and a corresponding understanding of their knowledge of their rights and a corresponding understanding of the comes at once the palladium of our liberties, the strong hold of our laws.

marvel and wonder, steel, steam, electricity, submarine, aeroplane on one hand and the growth of intellectual and ethical power on the other. Varied indeed is the environment into which the youth of our land must go and the education that shall be worth while must fit primarily for adoptation.

Health is foundation stone not only of happiness but of all success. Absolutely futile is that quest of knowledge, that pursuit of riches, whose and reknown that fails in the end to conserve human energy and

The supreme end of education is not physical efficiency nor mental efficiency, but morality that expresses itself in character. Essential to good citizenship are good health and vigorous mentality but of vaster consequence are truthfulness, honesty, reverence and self-control which make for right character.

and self-control which make for right character.

The citizen of character of the stamp of Governor Baldwin is the nation's most glorious asset. By the educator, however instruction for citizenship must be continued since it is of prime necessity, Good citizenship is needed, the citizenship that glories in its birth, "civis Americanus sum." I am an American citizen; citizenship noble, honest, hopeful that stoops not to base bribery and treats with contumely and scorn the bribe giver; citizenship that elects to office men of resolute will and undoubted integrity of the stamp of Simeon E.
